SWUCAT

Search by subject, as I did in the example below. You can also just type in keywords, such as “music education.”

The screenshot shows a search results page for 'Music instruction and study' at Southern Wesleyan University. The search bar contains the text 'Music instruction and study' and 'Southern Wesleyan Univ.'. Below the search bar, there are options to 'Save Marked Records' and 'Save All On Page'. The results are displayed in a table with columns for 'Num Mark LC Subjects (1-22 of 22)', 'Year', and 'Entries Found'. The second result, 'Music -- Instruction and study', is highlighted in yellow and has 73 entries found. A callout box on the left points to this result with the text: 'Click on "Music—Instruction and Study" to see ALL the books we have on this subject'. A green box on the right says 'Click here PASCAL DELIVERS to get books from other South Carolina academic libraries in 3 days!'.

www.pascalcat.org

You can search PASCALcat in the same way you search SWUcat. But, you will get many more results through PASCAL, so you may need to be more specific.

For instance, if you put “Orff” in as a keyword in SWUcat, you will get 12 results. In PASCALcat, you will get 324 results. In PASCALcat, try “Orff” and “elementary school” (or any other word(s) that match your topic). You will get 8 results—much more manageable.

WEBSITES:

WHEN "GOOGLING" FOR INFORMATION, YOU SHOULD ALWAYS ALWAYS ALWAYS THINK ABOUT:

- 1) Who wrote the information
- 2) Why they wrote it
- 3) Where their information comes from (HINT: If you can't tell, don't use it!)

Refer to WORTHY WEBSITES FOR MUSIC MAJORS at

<http://www.swu.edu/library/help/music/Worthy%20Websites%20for%20Music%20Majors.pdf>

for websites that have already been pre-determined to be good sources of information
